

Big Two Meeting Fruitful

In Accord On Next Berlin Move

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan today were reported in complete agreement on their next steps in the Berlin crisis, the results of the recent Soviet nuclear tests and the little they know about the confused Congo situation.

The two leaders of the Western alliance were expected to go deeper into all three situations, and others as well, in further talks before Kennedy flies back to Palm Beach, Fla., late today to the bedside of his seriously ill father.

They conferred for five hours in their first session Thursday and there was every indication that the atmosphere was harmonious. But their spokesmen emphasized that each subject was discussed only to a limited extent.

In their talk on Berlin, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said, Kennedy and Macmillan concurred on "steps that can be taken in this particular field." Informants said this meant the position the West should take in trying to negotiate a peaceful solution with Moscow.

The next step, it was agreed in Paris at the Big Three foreign ministers' meeting last week, will be talks by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Moscow to determine if there is a chance for formal negotiations on a new Berlin agreement.

But informants said they still must decide on a further approach to Moscow; whether, for example, to work toward a foreign ministers' meeting and ultimately an East-West summit.

They also must discuss ways to bring French President Charles de Gaulle around. De Gaulle insists that the tension over Berlin is all of Soviet making and therefore the Soviets must take the first steps toward easing it.

Conspiracy Charge On Air Officer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has charged a decorated officer with giving U.S. military information to foreign agents during a visit to Germany last year.

The officer, Capt. Joseph P. Kauffman, 43, has been returned to Germany for investigation. The foreign power involved was not identified, but it was believed to be a Communist country.

Officials here said they did not know whether any money had been paid or what the motives were.

The Air Force said Thursday the investigations now under way will determine if Kauffman, a finance officer who holds the Bronze Star and several other World War II and Korean War decorations, will be tried before a court-martial.

The possible penalty could be as severe as death, but Air Force officials said they doubted the extreme penalty would be imposed if there were a trial and conviction.

The four alleged violations reported by the Air Force in response to inquiries were:

1. Conspiring with foreign agents to communicate U.S. defense information to a foreign country on or about October 1960.

2. "Wrongly" communicating information relative to the national defense with reason to believe the information would be to the advantage of a foreign nation.

3. Failure to notify his commander of attempts by foreign agents to get him to reveal security information.

4. Falsifying answers to a questioner by "denying that he had been employed by a foreign government or any agency of a foreign government."

At the time of the alleged offenses, the Air Force said, Kauffman was on leave in Germany en route to his new station at Sondrestrom Air Force Base, Greenland.

The Air Force said the information allegedly handed to foreign agents concerned personnel and installations where Kauffman had been stationed.

Kauffman, a bachelor, was born in Rutland, Vt.

Highway Bid Call Made For Jan. 18

11 Projects Added To Fiscal Year's Improvement Plans

The Missouri State Highway Commission is opening the new year with a call for bids January 18 for an estimated $18,500,000 in construction and improvements.

The call covers 197.4 miles of the state's highways in 41 counties and the cities of St. Louis, Kansas City, Trenton and Springfield.

Interstate system work is expected to account for $11,250,000 on about 19 miles of such highways. Primary system projects will extend over 56 1/2 miles estimated at $4,500,000 and urban system improvements will cost about $300,000 on 1.3 miles. Also included in the call are 120.6 miles on the state's secondary (farm to market) highway system estimated at $2,250,000.

There are 11 projects added under the current fiscal year's accelerated highway construction program based on estimated additional funds the Department anticipates as a result of the 2-cent motor fuel tax increase that went into effect Oct. 13. Such projects this month cover 49.4 miles at an estimated cost of $2,040,000.

Projects in this area include: Cooper County: Interstate Route 70-22 miles grading, bridging and laying two 24-foot wide Portland cement concrete pavements and signing from the Saline county line, east. Includes a 202-foot continuous slab span underpass at Route Z.

Pettis County: Route F — 1.8 miles grading and surfacing from U.S. Route 65, 4 1/2 miles south of Sedalia, west.

Saline County: Route AD — 1.6 miles grading and surfacing from Route 41, 2 1/2 miles south of Miami, northwest.

Cooper County: Route BB — 6.2 miles grading, bridging and surfacing from Route 135, at Clifton City, southeast to U.S. Route 50, at Ottaville. Includes a double 10 by 7-foot concrete box culvert over Bidstrup Branch, double 14 by 6-foot like structure over Clear Branch and a 90-foot precast concrete slab bridge over Harlan's Branch. (This project added under stepped-up program.)

Morgan County: Route NN — 2 miles grading and surfacing from Route 135, a mile south of Route 50, east.

Cooper - Pettis Counties: Route JJ-3.4 miles grading and surfacing from Route E, a mile west of Clifton City, north.

Deadline To Honor Cease-fire

Adoula Threatens Trouble If Plan Is Not Ratified

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Cyrille Adoula says next Wednesday is the deadline for Katanga to honor President Moise Tshombe's unity commitment — and there'll be trouble if it doesn't.

The chief of the Congo's central government told newsmen Friday his regime will take energetic actions to see that the eight-point agreement be signed with the secessionist leader is respected.

Tshombe said on his return to Elisabethville, his U. N.-occupied capital, that the agreement to end Katanga's secession was subject to ratification by his Cabinet and Assembly—"and that cannot be done for at least 10 days."

Adoula declared, however, that Tshombe had undertaken to send Katanga deputies and senators to the Congolese Parliament and start the unification process by Dec. 27.

Both government quarters here and Belgians in Elisabethville said they expect the United Nations to enforce the agreement, again resorting to force if necessary.

The Congo's information minister, Joseph Ileo, declared after the signing of the agreement "We do not intend to be outwitted again" by Tshombe.

Ileo noted that Tshombe had repudiated similar agreements in the past but asserted that "this time the U.N. is directly involved and has the responsibility to see that the commitment is completely respected."

On returning to Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, Tshombe declared he had "not found anything at Kitona."

Jet Airliner Crash Kills 27 In Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—A British Comet-4 jet airliner Thursday crashed and burned shortly after taking off from Ankara airport Thursday night, killing 27 of the 34 persons aboard.

Four Americans were among the seven survivors. It was believed they were the only Americans aboard.

All the survivors were sitting in a rear section of the cabin that came through the crash almost intact.

The British European Airways jet was flying from London to Tel Aviv, Israel.

The Americans pulled alive from the wreckage were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Joseph Goldman, believed to be from Roslyn Heights, N.Y.; Doris Mae Freudenberg, Bethlehem, Pa., a teacher in the U.S. Armed Forces School in Turkey who was flying to Cyprus and Israel for a Christmas vacation; and Arnold Holtzman, whose address was not immediately known.

All suffered burns and shock but the airline said their chances of recovery were good.

In Kansas City Area

Snow Storm Ties Knots In Traffic

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A fast-developing storm, carrying threats of up to eight inches of new snow by this evening, tied knots in traffic this morning in the Kansas City area.

Office-bound employees headed toward downtown Kansas City found vehicles jumbled at most intersections and travel was almost impossible on many hills.

Ice formed quickly under the wet snow. Lightning and thunder were seen and heard in Kansas City.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for northwest Missouri, east and extreme south Iowa and portions of extreme northeast Kansas and extreme southeast Nebraska. A new surge of Arctic air poured down from the Dakotas on the heels of northerly winds of 30 to 60 mph.

City Manager Robert P. Weatherford invoked part of Kansas City's emergency snow ordinance. Public works officials sent trucks throughout the city spreading sand and salt. As the snow piled up more snow plow crews went into action.

The emergency traffic regulation required motorists to use snow tires or chains on certain downtown streets or to face penalties if they tied up traffic. The section of the ordinance banning parking along the curbs of downtown snow routes was not invoked.

The snow spread through the northern half of Missouri and Kansas.

School Building Bond Issue Is Defeated

The $32,500 school building bond election held in the Pettis County R-VII School District Wednesday failed to pass when the vote did not meet the required two-third majority.

Thursday night, all absentee ballots which were put, were counted and all seven favored passage. However, only 138 persons voted in favor of the issue, and 75 opposed it. This brought a total vote of 213.

Earlier reports indicated 140 voted for the issue and 73 against. Whether a re-count of the total votes would be held could not be ascertained before press-time Thursday.

Cardinal Cushing Visits Mr. Kennedy

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing visited his old friend, ailing Joseph P. Kennedy, today and reported the President's father was very much improved, and had spoken to him.

The cardinal, who is from Kennedy's home city of Boston, said he had told Kennedy, a former ambassador to Great Britain:

"My dear friend, Mr. Ambassador, keep up your courage. We're all praying for you. You're going to be all right."

And, to this, he said the 73-year-old Kennedy, who has been partly paralyzed from a blood clot on the brain, replied: "I know I am."

This was the first time since his Tuesday stroke that the elder Kennedy had been reported able to talk. Previous reports from his doctors had indicated that he was unable to speak but he could recognize members of his family.

The cardinal said that he had cautioned his old friend not to say anything more so that he would not use up his reserve strength.

The cardinal visited some 20 minutes in the hospital on his way home from Lima, Peru.

When reporters asked Cardinal Cushing about the fact that Kennedy had spoken to him, when all

Re-Schedule Hearing For Next Term

Pettis County Circuit Court Judge Frank Hayes dismissed the jury panel called in the case of John E. Gonzalez, charged with molesting a minor, Friday morning when two key state's witnesses failed to appear.

The case was re-scheduled for hearing during the January Term of Circuit Court.

Shortly after the jury was dismissed, Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz filed three additional charges of molesting a minor against Gonzalez in Magistrate Court. This makes four separate but similar charges pending in Pettis County courts against Gonzalez.

A preliminary hearing on the three charges in Magistrate Court was set for Jan. 30.

The witnesses who failed to appear in answer to Circuit Court subpoenas were Kirk Johnson, 14, 1513 West 20th, and his mother, Mrs. Ruth Johnson, same address.

Fritz, in a conference with press representatives Friday morning, said, "I'll use every possible means at my disposal to see that this woman (Mrs. Johnson) is brought into court on proper charges for failing to appear."

The charges, all involving alleged offenses against teenage boys, are all based on alleged offenses occurring last July 4.

Gonzalez, who now lives in the Kansas City area, formerly lived at the Johnson home, Fritz said.

It was found after the hearing was called off that the calling of the jury panel will cost Pettis County in the neighborhood of $200.

William F. Brown is the attorney for the defendant.

Maps Next Move Against Reds' Registration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department says it will take action next month against members of the U.S. Communist party.

The announcement came Thursday after Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy hurried back to his Washington office from West Palm Beach, Fla., where his father lies seriously ill, to map the government's next move against the Communist party, its officers and its members.

The attention now was focused on the party members, who number about 10,000 according to the FBI. A Dec. 20 deadline passed without any of them registering as agents of the Soviet Union as required by the Internal Security Act.

The act carries stiff penalties for noncompliance: up to $10,000 and five years in prison for each day of violation.

Escapee Is Caught Near Cole Camp

An escaped California mental patient sought, since Dec. 7, was captured by the Missouri Highway Patrol and Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax just south of Cole Camp junction Thursday night. The escapee offered no resistance.

James Howard Snow, 28, Sunland, Calif., was taken into custody by Troopers John Cummings, Warsaw, W. T. Southwick, Sedalia, and A. E. Esther, Troop D, Springfield; and Sheriff Fairfax. The officers had set up a roadblock on Highway 65 and county road HH, three miles south of the Cole Camp junction.

Snow reportedly escaped from the Camarillo State Hospital in Ventura, Calif., on Dec. 7. He had been taken there for observation after seeking help from a minister, whom he reportedly told he "heard voices."

In July of 1961, while being taken to the institution, Snow reportedly grabbed the wheel of the auto in which he was riding. In the resulting accident, Sheriff Earl Mendhall of Ventura County, Calif., was killed.

Snow spent about seven months in the institution before escaping.

The Lebanon, Mo., police department was notified of Snow's escape, since his wife has relatives there. Information about the escapee's car, a 1946 Ford, was given to the Missouri Highway Patrol, and late Thursday afternoon Trooper Cummings spotted the car on U.S. 65, near Fristoe.

Cummings radioed for assistance, with Troopers Esther and Southwick responding. Sheriff Fairfax followed to aid in setting up the roadblock.

Two locations, first selected as possibilities for a roadblock, were rejected as unsatisfactory. The final roadblock was located at county road HH, three miles south of the Cole Camp junction.

Taken into custody were Snow, his wife, Naomi Charlene Snow, 25, and their son, Douglas, age three.

They were taken back to Lebanon, to await action by California authorities, who were notified of the capture.

Lt. R. E. Davis, Lee's Summit, and Trooper Esther escorted them on the trip to Lebanon.

May Tell On 'Cheaters'

Automatic Tax Processors Call for Closer Scrutiny

E. O. Bookwalter, District Director of Internal Revenue, Kansas City, is calling attention to the following statement issued by Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin.

"In reply to numerous inquiries, I would like to alert the small percentage of taxpayers who have not fully complied with Internal Revenue laws to the capabilities of automatic processing of tax returns which begins Jan. 1.

"The primary mission of the Internal Revenue Service is to encourage, facilitate and strengthen voluntary compliance with Internal Revenue laws. Our automatic data processing system will be a potent force in the accomplishment of this objective, as it will greatly facilitate detection of tax reporting failures and deficiencies.

"As Treasury Secretary Dillon has stated, it is the beginning of a new era in public tax administration. As such, it is a forward, not a backward, looking program.

"Some who previously failed to file returns or report all their taxable income are apparently concerned that filing of complete and accurate current returns will automatically bring past failures to light.

"I urge every person not to let this deter him from filing his current return on time and reporting the full amount of his income and tax liability. The coming of ADP makes this year just about the best time for a delinquent taxpayer to put his house in order.

"I would also like to urge everyone whose past tax failures were not willful to file a correct return for each prior year and satisfy his tax liabilities. Civil penalties for delinquency or negligence are added only if the facts warrant.

Genuine Sense of Humor

THIS TOOK A SENSE OF HUMOR—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis, whose Christmas cards traditionally have shown them photographed beside their huge fireplace, sent this card to their friends this year. Their home, except for the fireplace, was destroyed last month in the huge brush fire that swept the Brentwood - Bel Air section of southern California. The picture on the card shows them seated, with highballs in hand. Below the picture is the phrase: "Out but not down."

More Than Greeting Cards

If all the energy expended in selecting, buying, addressing, stamping and mailing Christmas cards could be converted into a powerful potion to stimulate lasting human kindness and good will, what an Eden we would have on earth.

"Season's Greetings" and "Good Wishes" on Christmas cards are arriving earlier this year in accordance with the postoffice department plea to insure delivery before the holidays.

Only a confirmed cynic will ignore the cards and their messages symbolic of the thoughtfulness of friends and relatives. As one grows older he lingers with studied attention over each card, its appropriate illustrations of infinite variety and the names of the senders, the latter stirring recollections of social or family contacts.

Christmas cards from far away places are often accompanied by personal messages that vibrate the heartstrings in memory of pleasant associations long ago.

Indeed the years are slipping away all too fast, it seems, yet there is great solace in knowing so many friends devote time to preparation of traditional greetings. Senders may wonder whether sentiments expressed on this occasion are appreciated.

By and large we would say they are if our own feelings in this matter may be acknowledged.

Some messages this year were emotionally uplifting. After 32 years of separation we heard from a woman who with two children is happily married to a professional man in an eastern city near where we once resided. As a girl she was employed by us to help with the housework and baby sit. Her Christmas message was to let us know after these many years that her association with our family during her formative years had been of immeasurable benefit for guidance in subsequent periods of her own family life.

Then, too, came a message in similar vein from a woman with four children who in childhood was so often in our home, as a friend of our daughters.

Indeed, by these examples, Christmas cards can be potent assurances of deep friendship and spiritual significance. Surely the energy expended in seeing that such messages reach particular destinations indicate their efficacy can be potent in perpetuating human kindness and good will when one may have an inclination to become cynical considering the state of the world at this moment which seems in defiance of all that is Godly.

Colombia's Tribute 'From the Heart'

By DREW PEARSON

BOGOTA — Following President Kennedy's helicopter-diplomacy visit to this capital of Colombia, I went to see the man who had given him what Press Secretary Pierre Salinger described as his biggest welcome.

I found President Alberto Lleras Camarzo in the ancient palace of San Carlos built by the Spanish conquerors around 1530, some 50 years after Columbus discovered the new world. Its Spanish columns, huge patios, and mahogany doors have witnessed both the cruelty and the culture of Spanish Conquistadors, the liberation movement of Simon Bolivar and the ruthlessness of recent Colombian dictators.

Alberto Lleras looked a bit out of place behind a vast mahogany desk in the vast presidential room which is long enough to be a bowling alley. He is short and slim and looks more like a university professor than a President of a nation. He speaks excellent English from many years of residing in the United States and has given Colombia its most democratic government in history. He was surrounded by no secretaries or flunkies.

I asked Lleras what, in his opinion, was behind the record demonstration for Kennedy.

"It was a great reception," he replied. "Greater than we expected, and my only explanation is that it was from the heart. We are all very happy."

"One opposition newspaper referred to the number of troops we called out, but there were no more than necessary to handle such a large crowd. Do you know how many people we put in jail?" Lleras asked. "Only 14. And they were jailed not on suspicion but because they were actually disturbing the peace."

What he referred to of course was the practice in many countries of rounding up known communists or troublemakers before the arrival of important foreign visitors. De Gaulle, for instance, rounded up several hundred Hungarians and anti-Russians sent to France from Corsica prior to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit.

Anti-Castroism Stronger

"How much Castro strength is there in Colombia now?" I asked.

"Not much," the man who has led the attack against Castro in the organization of American states replied. "Castro lost most of his strength here because of his killings. When people saw these on television they were revolted. Our rural population turned against him first and today even most of his supporters in the universities have turned."

Guest Editorial

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: More Than the Sum of the Parts. — Possibly the most striking sentence in the statement of the judges of the special court which tried Adolf Eichmann is this:

"Such total crimes, . . . crimes against humanity, which are directed against a group of people as such are of an even graver nature than the sum total of the criminal acts against individuals of which they are composed."

In imposing a capital sentence, the court assumed a responsibility it might have dodged. Holding that the death penalty was no longer obligatory under changes in the Israeli penal code, it nevertheless concluded that the crimes in which Eichmann had part required no less a punishment.

As for the defense that the accused had merely acted under orders, the court held he had "identified himself in his heart with the orders. . . and was actuated by an ardent desire to attain the criminal object."

The judges were dealing with the historically old but newly named crime of genocide. Monstrous as is the record of murder of millions of Jews by the Nazis, the offense against humanity was something broader and more ramified in its effects. It was the poisoning of minds with hatred toward a group selected as a target. Against such a frenzy, in whatever change of form, let the future be on guard.

The Empty Chairs

We all hear from time to time how some great work of art is discovered hidden beneath a mediocre piece of painting by a later artist. Very little painting done in Russia in the Communist era is ever likely to be classed as great. It harps too much on revolutionary and political themes.

However it is to be regarded, some of it already is being painted over. But there is this difference. We won't have to scrape the paint off to learn what's underneath. The answer will always be the same: a portrait of Joseph Stalin.

All over Russia the touch-up artists are daubing him out of celebrated paintings. Future art students may one day wonder why, in the years 1930-1953, Soviet painters so often painted empty chairs.

"I Don't Like Yours, Either"

The World Today

United Nations Got a Belting In '61

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Nations got a belting this year for what it did or failed to do. But it operated as any representative assembly could be expected to, including the American Congress.

From any adult and realistic view it couldn't be expected to please everybody all the time.

On any given issue the 104 U.N. member nations voted unanimously or broke up into special interest — or selfish — groups to carry a point or try to block it for their own particular reasons.

And, from the viewpoint of its own special interests, this country had a lot to be satisfied with in the U.N. session which ended this week. Some examples of a representative group in action:

The Asian-African bloc stood together on racial and colonial issues but split on political ones. There were also neutral blocs, Communist blocs, Western blocs, each looking out for its own interests.

This could have been predicted without looking further than American history.

In Congress Southern Democrats down through the years formed a bloc—on civil rights, for instance — when they broke off from a majority of their party. On some other issues they voted solidly as party regulars.

And, carrying the example further, groups in both the Democratic and Republican parties, like liberals or conservatives, cross party lines to join their like-minded colleagues on a specific issue.

The U.N. could explode and fall apart for a number of reasons, but always depending on what the special interest alignments happen to be at any one moment. This country exploded in civil war once for that reason.

Nor would it be outside the American experience if one or more U.N. members refused to abide by a majority decision — as has been the case.

The American Senate, for instance, has jealously established and protected the privilege of any member or group of members to try to block the will of the majority by a filibuster.

But at least in Congress once the will of the majority has been established — by a final vote — those who disagree accept the verdict, more or less.

In the U.N., still only 16 years old, there have been rejections of the majority view which show either sheer willfulness or immaturity, even on the part of old nations which by now should be grown up.

For example:

The U.N. banged into a financial crisis in the session which ended this week—it surmounted this by approving a $200-million bond issue—because some members would not pay their share of certain expenses.

The expenses were for U.N. operations against Katanga in the Congo and for the emergency force which the world set up in the Middle East after the Suez crisis of 1956.

The Communists, France, Belgium, Portugal, South Africa and most of the Arab states in one or both cases refused to pay their share.

The United States was sorely troubled when earlier this week the U.N. Security Council—thanks to a Soviet veto and the opposition of Egypt, Ceylon and Liberia —failed to rebuke India for attacking Portuguese Goa.

This country, because of its own view and interests, had a lot to be satisfied about in actions like these:

The U.N. overcame what looked for a while like a total wrecking operation—when the Soviet Union tried to create three secretaries-general instead of one — by appointing an acting secretary for another year and some months.

The U.N. refused to open the door to membership for Red China. It rebuked the Chinese communists for their treatment of the people of Tibet and the Soviet Union for its conduct in Hungary.

And, despite criticism even within the United States for using force to push secessionist Katanga Province back into the Republic of the Congo, the U.N. seems to have brought peace there, if only temporarily.

In addition: the United States and the Soviet Union were able to agree on laying the ground for negotiations on disarmament and the peaceful exploration of outer space.

Predict Rise In Cost Of Home Mortgages

By FAYE HENLE

If you plan the major financial moves in your life by doing the opposite of what others are doing, you'll often get a better buy.

Often those who have made the greatest success in the securities markets have bought when others were selling, sold when others were buying.

Last year's model car or appliance often can be had at a vast discount from this year's. True, you may lose something on the trade-in, but you might save enough in cash or finance charges to make it worthwhile.

The same principle is true in the housing market. When the snow clouds gather, who hunts a new abode? If you are thinking of buying, or switching houses, this might be just the time.

Those who furnish mortgage money believe the cost of such loans may rise by spring when they expect a more than seasonal upturn in demand. Already the latest survey of conventional mortgage costs—not FHA or VA loans—made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board shows rates moving up fractionally.

Whether the bankers are right or wrong is anyone's guess, but if you are in the market for a house their predictions of higher interest rates are well worth considering.

Your first step should be to speak with several local lenders—bankers, savings and loan association officers—to get their opinions of conditions in your locality. Once you have done this, only then begin your house hunt.

A just-released study by the American Bankers Association warns, however, that before you make a down payment on a house you should ascertain whether you will be able to get the mortgage you need.

From what readers write, I'm aware that many of you are eager to upgrade your housing, reaching for homes that may be too expensive for you.

From what bankers tell me, there is a slight increase in the numbers of people unable to meet their mortgage payments. Thus, bankers are more careful today than in the recent past when it comes to granting mortgage money.

The bank will require of you an application form calling for a detailed explanation of the amount, terms and conditions of the loan you seek, description of the property and such personal data as the source and size of your present income and a statement of your indebtedness. The

We, the Women

Fifteen words must be used daily to foster good relationships among workers, says Dr. Earl S. Thompson of Pennsylvania State University.

The words the professor recommends for everyday use are "I am proud of you," "What do you think?" "If you please," "Thank you," and "We."

What the professor didn't point out is that those same 15 words are just as important to happy family living as they are to pleasant working relationships.

Many parents who are forever reminding their children to say "please" and "thank you" rarely use those words themselves when speaking to their children — though children appreciate courtesy from adults every bit as much as adults appreciate courtesy from children.

Many wives use "I" and "My" much more often than they use "we" and "our." They talk about "My house," "my children" and "I have decided" and "I want" and "I think."

Many husbands go for years without ever saying to their wives or children, "I am proud of you." Such men are quick to point out what hasn't been done right or what hasn't been done at all but slow to give praise.

They end up by having wives and children who think, "You can't use the use of trying, you can't please him, no matter what."

So while the professor's recommended phrases may seem superficial — they aren't really. They are all important, for they all say: "I respect you as a person and I appreciate you for what you are and for what you are trying to do."

And they work every bit as well in homes as in offices.

Little Chats on Public Notice

RENTING CAPS AND GOWNS

Not long ago a Louisiana newspaper carried a somewhat unusual notice to bidders. It was to the effect that sealed bids would be received at the purchasing office of Northeast Louisiana State College for the rental of caps and gowns and hoods for the spring and summer graduation.

The body of this legal notice was only 12 lines long. It went on to fix the day and hour when the bids would be opened and said that specifications were on file at the purchasing office. It added that the college reserved the right "to accept or reject any or all bids." The notice was to be run three times.

The college in question is a relatively small one of some 2,000 students. As a state agency, responsible for the expenditure of public funds, it was only following the procedure prescribed by law in such cases. Such statutes cover hundreds of situations where the public business is concerned.

In this particular instance only the rental of certain academic apparel was involved. But the principle is the same whether for purchase or rental. This is to give due notice and to seek the lowest and best bid to be had, since sometimes the lowest bid may not be the best bid.

This kind of procedure especially where public business is concerned, is in the interest of the general public. In hundreds of situations the newspaper is the medium most often used, and used most effectively, for such purposes.

KS. Xavier to Meet

Kentucky Invitational
Tourney Opens Tonight

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Everybody thinks we're a much improved team over last year," Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp was saying. "I hope to find out in this tournament just how good we are."

Rupp, who is supposed to be in a rebuilding year, referred to the Kentucky Invitational that opens tonight with Kansas State and Xavier meeting in the first game at Lexington, Ky., and the host Wildcats going against Tennessee.

It marks the second major test for the Wildcats, attempting to rebound from last season's 19-9 record, the worst in 32 years under Rupp.

Kentucky, with only one starter back from last year's team, failed its first big test, losing to Southern California, the nation's sixth ranked team, in the second game of the season.

Should the Wildcats (4-1) get past Tennessee (0-4), and they're heavily favored to do so, their performance in Saturday's final can give a solid indication whether Rupp has succeeded.

They'll face either Xavier (3-3) or Kansas State (6-0).

In Thursday night's top games, second-ranked Cincinnati bombed Colorado 84-67 on the Bearcats' home court, eighth-ranked Purdue outlasted Evansville 83-77 and Wichita's tough Shockers knocked Santa Clara from the unbeaten ranks, 60-48.

Cincinnati (6-1) used a first half scoring burst, triggered by sophomores George Wilson and Ron Bonham, to establish a 42-20 lead and coasted in from there. Colorado's Ken Charlton led all scorers with 23 points while Paul Hogue had 20 for the winners.

Purdue (5-1), beaten from the floor, used free throw accuracy and experience as the keys to its victory over Evansville's home-standing Aces. Purdue hit 29 of 30 free throws while the young Aces converted only 19 of 34.

In other major games, Georgia Tech surprised Missouri 56-37 at Atlanta; Homestanding Syracuse lost its sixth straight, 74-63 to Pitt; Creighton unleashed a devastating first half attack in crushing Rice 91-57 at Omaha; Bradley romped over touring Brown 89-62; Iowa punished Nevada 88-46 in Nevada's last game of a Midwest trip; Oklahoma State beat Colorado State 60-44; and Utah State stretched its unbeaten string to eight with a 77-64 triumph over Pacific University.

Davis Agrees
On Contract
With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ernie Davis "sacrificed a very substantial sum of money" in accepting an offer to play with the Cleveland Browns, according to attorney Anthony W. DeFilippo, adviser to the All-America halfback from Syracuse.

Arthur B. Modell, front-office boss for the Browns, announced Thursday night that Davis had agreed to sign a three-year contract with the Browns for $80,000 — $65,000 salary plus a $15,000 bonus. This is the most the Browns ever have invested in a rookie, but Jim Brown, who reportedly received $31,000 this year still is the highest paid player on the club.

The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League also were bidding for Davis, and Dick Gallagher, general manager of the Bills, said Davis had been offered a three-year deal worth "well over $100,000." Reports were the Buffalo offer was worth $135,000. Modell was delighted.

"There just aren't words to express my happiness now that Ernie has decided to play with us," the board chairman of the National Football League club declared. "It's certainly gratifying to know that young athletes like Davis consider their long-range future rather than immediate financial gain."

Brown preceded Davis at Syracuse, and many of the records the fullback set there were broken by the 6-foot-2, 215-pound Davis. The two are friends. It was on Brown's advice that Davis went to Syracuse, and Brown presented the NFL club's case when Davis was trying to make up his mind on a pro career.

Modell and Coach Paul E. Brown had been sweating out that decision for the Browns have gambled quite a bit on being able to sign Davis. Cleveland traded speedy Bobby Mitchell and a first-round draft choice to the Washington Redskins to get a chance at Davis.

Players In Shrine Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"Todd doesn't smile much," said the nurse, "but he's been waiting for you."

The lanky young man looked at the skinny little boy and picked him up.

"He's heavy with those braces on his legs," the nurse said.

"Not for me, he's not," said Gary Barnes, an end from Clemson.

And Todd, 3, broke into a great big grin.

Forty-eight of the finest football players in the nation will play in the Shrine East-west Game at Kassar Stadium Dec. 30. They visited the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children Thursday, meeting the youngsters who will benefit from the game proceeds.

A tiny doll named Maria, just 18 months old, sat in her bed, all dressed up, watching the young giants walk in.

Irv Goode, a 6-foot-5 end from Kentucky, was heading toward a little girl in the next bed when he stopped and lifted tiny Maria into his arms. She blinked her big eyes, then rested against his big shoulders, daring the world to take her new friend away from her.

It was a big day for the players, their wives, the coaches and those crippled kids. And it didn't take long to see who was running the affair.

"I want my book filled with autographs," said a little girl.

Roman Gabriel, the North Carolina State quarterback—a fellow who's been chased by plenty of professional scouts—hurried off on a chase for signatures.

"Here they are, sweetheart," Gabriel said.

"Thank you," replied the 6-year-old. "Now get her book filled."

She jerked a thumb at the child in the next bed and Gabriel went scurrying off again.

Suddenly the nurses were telling the youngsters and the players that the players had to leave.

The kids hugged the brawny young men, kissed them and smiled.

The football players smiled back. And those big guys' eyes were glistening.

On Big College Team

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Four Big Eight schools each will have one football player on the Major College team that meets the Small College team in the All American Bowl at Tucson Dec. 30.

Cowboys In A Big Eight
Cage Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oklahoma Cowboys came up with the only Big Eight victory in three games involving the league's basketball teams Thursday night.

The Cowboys ran their season record to 6-1 by beating Colorado State University 60-44 at Stillwater Okla., as tall Eddie Bunch led the scoring with 23 points and teammate Cecil Epperley tossed in 12.

Georgia Tech's Frank Landrey scored two free throws in the last three seconds to help the Yellow Jackets upset Missouri 58-57 in Atlanta.

The No. 2 ranked Cincinnati Bearcats walloped Colorado 84-67 at Cincinnati.

Missouri, minus the services of ace scorer Howard Garrett who injured a knee against Tennessee Wednesday night, held a 14-point lead with five minutes left but couldn't stand off a late Tech drive. Sophomore Bruce Mills of Missouri and Bill Eidson of Tech each scored 13 points.

The Kansas State Wildcats, who have won their first six games and rate fourth nationally, will meet Xavier of Cincinnati in the opening game of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament tonight. Kentucky plays Tennessee and the winners clash for the title Saturday night.

"Here they are, sweetheart," Gabriel said.

Two Awarded
Top Player
Designations

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston Oilers' quarterback George Blanda and defensive end Earl Faison of the San Diego Chargers, two players who may see a lot of each other in Sunday's American Football League title game, were accorded the two player designations in their league today.

In an Associated Press poll, a special board picked Blanda, 33, as player of the year and Faison, a 256-pounder from Newport News, Va., as the loop's rookie.

Blanda, who spent 10 years as a pro with the Chicago Bears, got only slight competition from halfback Billy Cannon and end Charley Hennigan of his Eastern Division champion Oilers.

Blanda's honor as the league's top player went right along with the choice of his coach, Wally Lemm, as the AFL Coach of the Year. When Lemm took over in October—never to lose a game—he took Blanda off the bench and made him the Oilers' top quarterback.

Faison, 22, was the Chargers' No. 1 draft choice a year ago, and was particularly outstanding in the 1960 East-West Shrine Game.

Devine Planning
To Remain With
Missouri Tigers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dan Devine reiterated Thursday that he has absolutely no plans for leaving his football coaching job at the University of Missouri.

A member of the West's coaching staff for the Shrine's East-West game, Devine said:

"I have five years left on an eight year contract and I intend to serve them out."

Unofficial alumni from Notre Dame and Army have talked to him, Devine said, but added: "To the best of my knowledge I don't know any alumni who run schools. But all alumni groups have people who talk."

Devine added:

"I have no plans for making any move. . . none whatsoever."

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: I was fascinated by the letter from the father whose 11-year-old flat-chested daughter appeared at the breakfast table wearing a brassiere. He said the girl didn't need a bra any more than he did and he so informed his wife by telephone the moment he reached his office.

is in pretty bad shape herself. The way to give children emotional assurance is to love them, spend time with them, listen to them and give them a feeling of personal worth. The notion that emotional reassurance can be had in A, B and C cups is absurd.

Dear Ann Landers: The holiday season is here again. Our daughter and three children plus our daughter-in-law and her three will be visiting us at the same time.

How can I get across to both mothers that I will not tolerate any more brutality from their 7-year-olds? Ever since these two hellions were able to walk they have been wild and destructive. They used to nearly kill each other. Now the two of them gang up against the younger children and I can't take the constant fighting. Every time we sit down to a meal there is kicking, screaming and biting. This one won't sit next to that one and food is thrown and spilled on the table and the carpeting. I've talked to both mothers and they say such behavior is natural for 7-year-olds. I've had to go away immediately after Christmas and rest up for three weeks to recover from the holidays. Any suggestions?—S.O.S.

Dear S.O.S.: Yes. Go away for three weeks—beginning Dec. 15.

Dear Ann Landers: I graduated from high school at 18. I made honor grades and thought my academic record would help me get a good job. Every place I went they said "Sorry, we need someone with experience." I enrolled in a business school and graduated with high marks. I've been hunting for an office job for 18 months. All I hear "We need someone with experience." How can a person fresh out of school get experience when no one will give him a chance? Please tell me what to do, Ann. I'm beginning to think this is a cruel, cruel world.—UNEMPLOYED.

Dear Unemployed: Inexperienced people (especially office help) are hired every day on the strength of recommendations from business schools. Perhaps your appearance, your personality or your general attitude needs working on. Discuss this problem with your school teachers—and good luck to you.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEW GUINEA GRAPPLE—When the Netherlands turned over its former East Indian possessions to the new Republic of Indonesia in 1949, its territory on the jungle island of New Guinea was not included. Indonesia has claimed it ever since. Possibly emboldened by India's take-over of Portuguese Goa, 500,000 Indonesian troops are reported poised to invade Dutch New Guinea, where the Netherlands has 5,000 men. The United Nations has rejected the Dutch application for a native plebiscite to choose between independence or union with Indonesia. Newsmap above profiles the disputed territory.

Speaking In Tongues Opens Controversy Among Clergy

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Speaking in tongues, a religious practice usually associated with Pentecostal sects, has cropped up in a normally sedate Episcopal church here and touched off a controversy among churchmen.

"Something tremendously important is happening here at St. Luke's," says the Rev. Dennis J. Bennett, pastor of the church. "It has nothing to do with denominationalism, but it is in the mainstream of historical Biblical Christianity."

Others disagree. Methodist Bishop Everett W. Palmer has warned ministers of his church in Washington and northern Idaho that a minister who encourages speaking in tongues does one of two things:

"He creates such division that he cannot remain in his pastorate, or he creates a church in which no minister is acceptable save one characterized by the distinction of 'speaking in tongues.'"

The practice is known to theologians as glossolalia. The worshiper speaks in what seem to be nonsense syllables. The idea is that he is addressing to God, with the aid of the Holy Spirit, thoughts he could not utter unaided.

Some churchmen note that St. Paul, in I Corinthians XIV, expresses doubts about the practice: "In the church, I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue."

"If therefore the whole church be come into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those that are unlearned, or unbelievers, will they not say that ye are mad?"

The Rev. Mr. Bennett became interested in the phenomenon in October 1959, while pastor of the 2,600-member St. Mark's Church in Van Nuys, Calif. He said his advocacy of it cost him his pastorate there.

There is general agreement that St. Luke's has thrived under Canon Bennett's pastoral care.

Attendance at Sunday services, which are conducted in traditional manner with no speaking in tongue, has tripled. The church, unable to pay its assessments to the diocese two years ago, will build a $90,000 parish hall next year.

About 300 come to a nondenominational prayer meeting each Friday and about 100 to a weekly Tuesday meeting which is primarily for the parish. Speaking in tongues takes place at these meetings and in worshippers' homes.

Lane Smith, religion editor of the Seattle Times, attended a session in a private home. He said a young man with no formal church connection discussed his experience with tongues, then turned down the lights and uttered unemotionally what appeared to Smith to be a prayer. Smith said the only word he was able to distinguish sounded like "Kolikai."

Afterward, the young man, lighting a cigarette, told Smith: "The first time I did it I felt like a nut, and maybe I am one."

"It's hard to hold yourself down when you feel like shouting 'Praise God,'" said Mrs. George Hagey. Mrs. Hagey is a zoology graduate of the University of Washington.

Bishop Palmer calls speaking in tongues a perversion of a divine gift.

• New Guinea was visited by Europeans for the first time in 1527. Dutch East India Co. acquired a commercial monopoly and was first to claim the land.

• Since early 19th century, Dutch government has administered western New Guinea (called West Irian by Indonesians); the eastern half is an Australian trusteeship.

• Area of Dutch New Guinea is 160,000 square miles; population is approximately 700,000, consisting mainly of Papuans, who are not ethnically related to Indonesians.

• World War II gave boost to knowledge of the area; military airfields became postwar boon. Some oil is produced; experiments on developing agricultural products (rice, cocoa, etc.) are under way.

Teenager Killed In 2-Car Crash On Highway 40

FENTON, Mo. (AP) — Joseph M. Gifford, 16, a high school student, was killed and two other persons were hurt Thursday in a two car collision on U.S. Highway 40 in Jefferson County.

State Troopers said Gifford apparently was unable to control his car at a curve and the vehicle edged into the oncoming traffic lane and collided headon with a car driven by Mrs. Joann Baumgardner, 29. Gifford and Mrs. Baumgardner both live on Route 2, Fenton.

Mrs. Baumgardner and her son, Dennis, 10, were injured in the accident. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Kirkwood.

However, interest payment of 6 per cent must be made under the law.

"As to those few who may have committed tax frauds, the law provides that a penalty of 50 per cent may apply, and criminal proceedings may be instituted. Obviously, it would be a dereliction of our duty not to investigate these cases.

"Here, the question may arise whether taxpayer's voluntary disclosure of his willful violations will afford immunity from criminal prosecution. I want to reaffirm our existing policy in this regard even true voluntary disclosure of a willful violation will not, of itself, guarantee prosecution immunity. At the same time, the Service will carefully consider and weigh it, along with all other facts and circumstances, in deciding whether or not to recommend prosecution. Voluntary disclosure would, of course, have to be made before any investigation had been initiated.

"I wish to state again that taxpayers, in overwhelming majority, report true incomes and pay proper taxes. I believe that ADP will give them added assurance that they are carrying only their fair share of the tax burden."

The Business World
Crisis-free Weekend Best Gift for Most Americans

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK — If there is any last-minute Christmas gift most Americans would like to get from Santa Claus it might well be a weekend free of crisis.

Crisis crowd so fast on each other's heels in the international trouble spots and in the domestic political, business and financial worlds that many Americans are pretty resigned to them if not callous.

Still it would be nice to have this long Christmas weekend free of any new crises. The old ones are quite enough.

At least the stock markets will be closed, and any flareup of that particular type will be postponed. The bulls and bears may argue over their egg-nogs as to the reasons the market has been seemingly all mixed up of late. But as for doing anything about their convictions, or the latest rumors they've heard, they will have to wait till next week's four-day run, mercifully shortened by the feast day.

Labor and management may or may not hold their peace — although at the local level here and there some showdowns are brewing. The big setto in sight, over a new steel contract, might considerably simmer down for the holidays—but you can't count even on that.

The tariff battle seems sure to break out in intensity not known for years. It is reaching into many sections of business, into every part of the land.

Nervousness over the outflow of gold and the continued deficit in the U.S. balance of payments, with more dollars going out than returning, is definitely back in the what-to-do-about-it lineup if yet to return to crisis status.

Any political flareup around the world—Goa, Indonesia, Katanga, to name the latest — can affect currency markets to small or large degrees and send money scurrying from one country to another, such as from Holland to Switzerland.

The domestic issue of foreign aid is tied in closely with currency movement, especially those that could affect the dollar adversely. But the issue is at crisis stage now largely for other reasons. These include disputes over actions of countries high on the list of those getting U.S. aid, past or present: such as India, Laos, Vietnam, Ghana, Poland, Yugoslavia and assorted Latin-American lands.

The business world is also bracing for a battle building up among various savings institutions over interest rates. Banks and savings & loan associations, among others are competing for funds. The immediate result will be a rise in interest paid on savings. But that could mean a rise in charges on mortgages, on loans to business, on consumer debt.

TV and Radio Wear Theme Of Christmas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The question before the house today concerns the over-attention TV and its sister, radio, gives Christmas. Why, oh why, does every TV production unit, whether it is cranking out half-hour Westerns or stitching together a situation comedy feel that it must devote this week's plot to the holiday?

Why, oh why, does every radio disc jockey feel he must endlessly repeat well-loved and familiar Christmas songs—particularly the souped-up versions for the rock 'n' roll and twist enthusiasts?

A few Christmas shows carefully assigned to certain programs each year by the TV networks, which are presumed to supervise and control the content of their shows, would certainly prevent this annual super-saturation of the comic Santas, office-party sketches and tons of shabby tinsel and popcorn snow.

With most commercials currently decked with holly and decorated trees, Christmas Day itself arrives as an anticlimax. The traditional joyous sounds of the day are heard so often they lose their effectiveness.

Let Garry Moore, Perry Como, Mitch Miller, the Telephone Hour and perhaps one or two others present Christmas shows of taste, beauty and wit. But, in the interests of a Santa-sated audience, ration the theme among the situation comedies, police shows and Westerns. Better still, ban it.

NBC, which didn't have much luck last season with its regular debate series, "The Nation's Future," which was inspired by the Kennedy - Nixon confrontations, hasn't given up the idea entirely.

Early in February, it will launch a Sunday afternoon series of debates between collegiate teams. Maybe it hopes to tap the good-sized audience of young people who tune in CBS' "College Bowl" quiz show later in the day. Participants of the latter show are also teams picked from institutions of higher learning.

The program will replace "Mr. Wizard," a science show for the younger viewers, which will move to Saturday noons.

Saturday night is the most popular time for watching television, according to early-season Nielsen studies of viewing habits. Last year, Sunday was the biggest night. Last year and this, Friday proved the night when viewing was lightest. But it is pretty heavy every night in the week—the difference between No. 1 Saturday and No. 7 Friday is only about 10 per cent.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Saturday: "The Enchanted Nutcracker," ABC, 7:30-8:30 p.m.—musical fantasy with Carol Lawrence, Robert Goulet and Pierre Olaf.

Sunday: "Amahl and the Night Visitors," NBC, 4-5 — annual repeat by the NBC opera company; "Fred Waring's Unforgettables," NBC, 10-11—musical program of popular songs of recent years.

Wants Cards Stamped With Special Mark

JOHN DAY, Ore. (AP)—Postmaster George Benson of John Day received a large batch of Christmas cards the other day from a San Francisco resident.

Attached was a request that Benson mail the cards with the John Day stamp cancellation.

The San Francisco man's name? John Day.

Goldwater Praises JFK Latin Program

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a frequent critic of the Kennedy administration, has praised the President's South American program.

"I'll have to take my hat off to him," Goldwater told a civic club Thursday night. "What he said (on his recent South American trip) took courage.

"Before much progress can be made, the land owned by a few in Latin-American countries must be divided. The big question is how."

just an old fashioned wish — Merry Christmas!

SATURN SOLUTION—The recently tested first stage of the giant Saturn moon rocket was so huge it had to be transported by barge from Huntsville, Ala., where it was assembled, to its launching site at Cape Canaveral, Fla. But moving the smaller second stage may prove a problem, too. Its builder, Douglas Aircraft, has suggested an airplane piggyback method to bring it from the plant in California. As shown in drawing above, the 41-foot-long, 13,000-pound unit, too large for road or rail, would be carried atop a C-133 cargo plane. National Aeronautics and Space Administration is also considering using dirigibles and gliders.

Gov. Dalton Intervenes

18 Missouri Rural Negro School Children Admitted

ANNISTON, Mo. (P)—The case of 18 rural Negro children who had been unable to gain admission to a Mississippi County high school was settled Thursday after Gov. John M. Dalton personally intervened.

Officials of the Anniston School Board agreed, after a brief conference with the governor, to accept the Negroes Jan. 22, at the start of the next semester, until such time as the county votes on a reorganization of its school districts. This probably will be sometime in 1962.

Returning to Jefferson City by highway patrol plane, the governor said he saw no racial overtones in the case because high schools of the county are now integrated.

Dalton described it as "primarily a fight over reorganization and annexation."

He said he went to Mississippi County because "I wanted to get to the bottom of it and be sure there was no trouble."

Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Eagleton and the Missouri Commission on Human Rights had intervened in the dispute a month ago. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had threatened to file suit to force admission of the Negroes to Mississippi County schools.

The 18 Negroes, all first-year high school age, live in the Pinhook Common School District between Anniston and East Prairie in the southeast Missouri Bootheel. The district has no high school, and the children have not attended classes this school year.

Mississippi County has taken integration in some schools. An all-Negro and an integrated high school at Charleston, where some Pinhook area Negroes attended classes last year, refused to accept additional Negro students from outside the district this year. The East Prairie High School also denied them admission.

Rep. David Rowling, D. Charleston, who attended the Anniston conference with Gov. Dalton, said the Anniston School Board agreed to accept the Negroes only after "an earnest plea" by the governor.

The school officials said, however, that if the proposed reorganization fails they will adhere to a generally accepted rule of school districts in the area not to accept pupils living outside their districts.

Bitter Over Losses

Portuguese Demonstrate Against US and Britain

LISBON, Portugal (P)—A group of Portuguese embittered by the loss of Portugal's Indian enclaves demonstrated against the United States and Britain in a 30-car, horn-toting parade Thursday.

"Down with America," was among slogans pasted on the windshields of cars that sped through the business quarter of Lisbon at noon. "Down with the Anglo-Portuguese alliance."

Others denounced U.S. and British companies operating in Portugal.

Torn flags of the United States and Britain—partners of Portugal in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but frequently critical of Premier Antonio Salazar's government—trailed from car windows.

The demonstrators apparently considered that the Allies had failed Portugal in contributing nothing more than moral support against India's invasion.

A Soviet veto nullified American and British efforts to get a U.N. Security Council order for India to cease firing, withdraw troops and negotiate its claim to Goa and two other enclaves it had wanted ever since winning independence from Britain in 1947.

A Portuguese policeman on duty at the U.S. Embassy arrested a demonstrator who, armed with a knife, leaped from a car in what an official said was an apparent move to deface the embassy entrance.

A general reaction among Portuguese seemed to be bitterness at the Security Council's failure to intervene in the 48-hour war and uncertainty about what lies ahead.

Even political foes of Salazar, ever ready to call him a dictator, appeared shocked and confused.

Criticizing U.N. impotence in the crisis, Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira charged that "Nehru's India is today absolutely identified with Soviet Russia."

He told newsmen on returning from U.N. headquarters in New York that "no matter how sad and hurt we are by events in Goa, this goes far beyond what it means immediately to the Portuguesees."

"It has become a matter of worldwide concern. From now on the independence of all countries and the sovereignty of all territories—no matter where they are—are at the mercy of the stronger against the weaker," he said.

Despite remaining footholds abroad from the strategic Azores to Oceania, Portugal has little more than 30 million people under its green and red flag. India has more than 436 million.

What Portugal plans to do to safeguard its remaining territories will not be known here, officials said, until Salazar makes the announcement. But it appears certain the disaster in Goa has reinforced the government's intention to maintain a strong military force in Angola, a rich West African province that was the scene of a spring uprising.

No Real Improvement

Joseph Kennedy's Condition Serious

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (P)—Joseph P. Kennedy, 73, father of the President, remained in serious condition Thursday from a stroke, with no real improvement since early Wednesday morning.

President Kennedy spent 30 minutes at St. Mary's Hospital before flying to Bermuda for a two-day conference on thorny international issues with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

His father was awake when the President saw him, the doctor in charge of the case reported. Dr. Marco Johannsen, the physician heading the four-man team attending the elder Kennedy, issued a terse, two-sentence medical bulletin he had scribbled on a memo slip: "Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy's condition is unchanged as of 2 p.m. The patient is resting quietly."

Johannsen told reporters clustered in a hospital corridor that his patient's condition still was serious.

"There has been no material change since yesterday morning," he said in response to a question.

The doctors had found Kennedy somewhat improved when they examined him about 7 a.m. Wednesday. But the pickup obviously was fleeting and they were unable to report any additional progress since then.

Escapee Is Caught Near Cole Camp

An escaped California mental patient sought, since Dec. 7, was captured by the Missouri Highway Patrol and Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax just south of Cole Camp junction Thursday night. The escapee offered no resistance.

James Howard Snow, 28, Sunland, Calif., was taken into custody by Troopers John Cummings, Warsaw, W. T. Southwick, Sedalia, and A. E. Esther, Troop D, Springfield, and Sheriff Fairfax. The officers had set up a roadblock on Highway 65 and county road HH, three miles south of the Cole Camp junction.

Snow reportedly escaped from the Camarillo State Hospital in Ventura, Calif., on Dec. 7. He had been taken there for observation after seeking help from a minister, whom he reportedly told he "heard voices."

In July of 1961, while being taken to the institution, Snow reportedly grabbed the wheel of the auto in which he was riding. In the resulting accident, Sheriff Earl Mendhall of Ventura County, Calif., was killed.

Snow spent about seven months in the institution before escaping. The Lebanon, Mo., police department was notified of Snow's escape, since his wife has relatives there. Information about the escapee's car, a 1946 Ford, was given to the Missouri Highway Patrol, and late Thursday afternoon Trooper Cummings spotted the car on U.S. 65, near Fristoe.

Cummings radioed for assistance, with Troopers Esther and Southwick responding. Sheriff Fairfax followed to aid in setting up the roadblock.

Two locations, first selected as possibilities for a roadblock, were rejected as unsatisfactory. The final roadblock was located at county road HH, three miles south of the Cole Camp junction.

Taken into custody were Snow, his wife, Naomi Charlene Snow, 25, and their son, Douglas, age three.

They were taken back to Lebanon, to await action by California authorities, who were notified of the capture.

L. R. E. Davis, Lee's Summit, and Trooper Esther escorted them on the trip to Lebanon.

School Building Bond Issue Is Defeated

The $32,500 school building bond election held in the Pettis County R-VII School District Wednesday failed to pass when the vote did not meet the required two-third majority.

Thursday night, all absentee ballots which were out, were counted and all seven favored passage. However, only 138 persons voted in favor of the issue, and 75 opposed it. This brought a total vote of 213.

Earlier reports indicated 140 voted for the issue and 73 against. Whether a re-count of the total votes would be held could not be ascertained before press-time Thursday.

Vets to Get Forms On Income Tax

Veterans drawing pensions will receive a questionnaire along with their December checks, in connection with income tax, according to assistant State Service Officer James Taate.

Taate stated these questionnaires are not to be mutilated, and that he will be glad to assist any veteran in filling out the form. Taate will be in his office on the second floor of the Pettis County Courthouse in Sedalia each Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Reported in Complete Agreement in Attitude

HAMILTON, Bermuda (P)—President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan opened a two-day conference with a five-hour talk Thursday on outstanding world problems. They were reported in complete agreement in their attitude toward the Soviet Union in the Berlin crisis.

The two Western leaders also were reported in accord on problems arising from the Congo and on questions of nuclear testing—but the area of agreement on these was described as limited.

Berlin, the Congo and nuclear weapons were top items in the opening session of the British-American meeting. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the two leaders were in agreement on items they discussed affecting the Western position on Berlin.

Regarding nuclear testing, Salinger said the conversations had not extended to policies but to a report submitted by experts from each nation on the recent series of Soviet tests, which culminated in a 50-megaton-plus nuclear blast.

Salinger said that the Kennedy-Macmillan agreement on the Congo applied to scanty information received from there on the announced accord of Katanga President Moise Tshombe with Premier Cyrille Adoula of the Congo central government.

A communique issued after the meeting by British press officer John Russell, with Salinger standing by his side, said: "The President and the prime minister had some five hours talk today between 12:30 and 6:45 p.m."

"They ran through in a preliminary way some of the major problems that confront the world today, such as Berlin, the Congo and nuclear questions."

"On the Congo, the information to hand is still very scanty. We must hope that a satisfactory solution is in the course of achievement on the spot."

"On nuclear questions, the President and the prime minister heard a presentation by their experts on the subject of recent Soviet tests."

The two Western leaders went into their talks after Kennedy arrived to a warm, simple reception in this British crown colony.

Kennedy had decided to go ahead with the scheduled Bermuda conference aimed at working out a diplomatic course for the year ahead, despite the sudden illness of his father that developed earlier in the week.

Kennedy paid a 30-minute call on his stricken father, Joseph P. Kennedy, at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach, Fla., before taking off for the two-day summit meeting on this British Atlantic island.

The President found that the condition of his father, who suffered a stroke Tuesday, had not changed overnight. But he is ready to hasten back to Florida if needed.

Cancels Months Rent

BERLIN (P)—The 30-year-old owner of two West Berlin apartment blocks has canceled a month's rent averaging about 70 marks—$17—as a Christmas gift to his 42 tenants. "I just wanted to make the people happy," said the landlord, who insisted on remaining anonymous.

For Reds' Prisoners

This is the 11th Christmas behind Chinese Communist bars for Hugh F. Redmond Jr., of Yonkers, N.Y.; 43, a businessman serving a life term in a Shanghai prison on unspecified Communist charges of espionage.

It is the 10th Christmas in jail for John T. Downey, 31, of New Britain, Conn.; and Richard Fecteau, 34, of Lynn, Mass., Army civilian employees jailed in Peiping on similar charges.

Downey is serving a life term and Fecteau has completed half his 20-year sentence.

Seeks Priority Action

UN Is Winning Grim Fight for Survival

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (P)—Adlai E. Stevenson asserted Thursday the United Nations is winning a grim struggle for survival but he called for priority action to strengthen and improve the peace-keeping machinery of the world organization.

In an appraisal of recent developments, the chief U.S. delegate told a news conference that, "The numerous reports of the death of the United Nations were, as Mark Twain used to say, greatly exaggerated."

Stevenson made it clear that he was disturbed by the failure of the Security Council to vote a cease-fire to halt the Indian invasion of Portuguese Goa, but he expressed the belief the United Nations would take steps to check the use of force in future cases.

He said the 104-nation General Assembly, in its 16th session which recessed early Thursday, had been confronted by a series of life-and-death issues when it met last September and "on every one of them we have today . . . a result better than we then dared to predict."

The main problems, he said, included the task of replacing the late Dag Hammarskjold as secretary-general, the China representation issue, a financial crisis which threatened ruin to the United Nations, and the Congo problem.

He said the first three had been solved—at least for the moment—and, "The news from the Congo is a fresh reminder of the durability of the United Nations."

"It has weathered many a crisis, from Korea to the present," he said, "and its trials have toughened it."

Stevenson expressed general satisfaction with the work of the 14-week assembly session and declared that in its record "much will be found that was magnificent, and perhaps decisive for the future peace of the world."

Secessionist Claims Withdrawn by Tshombe

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (P)—Moise Tshombe promised Thursday to accept the authority of the Congolese government over the rich Katanga Province he tried to make an independent nation.

He formally presented a signed declaration to United Nations Undersecretary Ralph Bunche and to Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula, implicitly withdrawing his secessionist claims.

But first signs of possible second thoughts by the mercurial Katanga leader came even before he had left the tightly guarded U.N. military base at Kitona where his 17-hour negotiating session with Adoula took place.

On his predawn departure from the base and again at his arrival in Nola, Northern Rhodesia, on his way back to his capital at Elisabethville, Tshombe claimed there was nothing final in his declaration—that it has yet to be ratified by his "national" assembly.

The United Nations took sharp issue with this possible threat to the carrying out of the agreement.

"There is no question of ratification," an official spokesman said. "As far as we are concerned, it is signed, sealed and delivered."

Tshombe's declaration acknowledged President Joseph Kasavubu as head of the entire Congolese Republic—including Katanga. It promised to place the Katanga gendarmerie under Kasavubu's authority and agreed to support the policy of the United Nations—including the expulsion of the foreign mercenaries who were Tshombe's strongest weapon against the central government and the United Nations.

But only events of the next weeks will tell how successfully Tshombe's declaration will be implemented.

Three times this year the separatist leader made apparent agreements with the central government—but they got lost in the thousand miles of wilds and jungle between Leopoldville and Elisabethville.

"We do not intend to be outwitted again," Congolese Information Minister Joseph Ileo said. "In the past Tshombe has not respected his agreements."

"This time the United Nations is directly involved and has the responsibility to see that the commitment is completely respected. The central government hopes that the United Nations will maintain its position in Katanga until the very moment that this commitment is carried out."

Silent Threat to Liberty

Americans would be quickly aroused if they felt that danger threatened their right of free choice at the polls.

Most, however, seem only dimly aware that another cornerstone of their freedom — the fair, full and swift administration of justice — is already seriously undermined.

Our democratic system centers on regard for the rights of the individual. If he cannot gain speedy redress for wrongs committed against him, his liberty obviously suffers.

Voluminous testimony today indicates that justice properly defined cannot be had by thousands upon thousands who clog our courts from the lowest city level to the federal system.

Two new surveys emphasize what amounts to an almost demoralizing chaos in the courts.

The magazine Fortune, taking note of the well-remarked delays of from one to five years in the handling of civil cases, argues that the pile-up of old claims is not even the worst of it.

It points out that judges, juries and lawyers have barely begun to familiarize themselves with a flood of totally new problems arising from scientific and technical advances, the spread of business abroad, the mounting complexity of government.

This means, says the magazine, that a "system of justice which is not fit to handle yesterday's demands until today will not be able to handle tomorrow's demands at all."

Parade, a weekly, studied U.S. traffic courts for half a year and discovered that on balance they are overcrowded, inefficient, unmindful of preserving basic constitutional rights, sometimes willing to put justice on a cash basis, tending to foster disrespect for the courts and for law and order.

Such terms as "meat grinders" and "cafeterias" sometimes are pinned to traffic courts in such big cities as Chicago. In the latter, on a typical day, 3,900 traffic cases may be called, not including 6,000 parking offenses where-in defendants pay fines by mail.

In countless instances, defendants are automatically presumed guilty, in clear defiance of the fundamental that a man is innocent until proved guilty.

Higher in the judicial system, the delays—plus the prospect of improper handling through ignorance of problems—lead many people either to suffer injustice without action, or to seek out-of-court settlements whose net effect may be unfair.

It is easy to sit by and call for a complete overhaul and enlargement of our creaking courts. Many experts believe, however, that nothing less will prevent the deep corrosion of our liberties.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

A Backyard View of the Congo War

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There is a lot more than meets the eye behind the resignation of the stormy Irishman, Dr. Conor Cruise O'Brien, as head of the UN operation in Katanga, the resignation of Irish Gen. Sean McKeown, commander of UN forces, and their charge that the British have been sabotaging the UN operation.

There's also a lot more than meets the eye behind the cold-blooded murder of Italian airmen and other UN troops in the Congo.

A quiet check at the State Department shows that the British Foreign Office has at times been discreetly but definitely pulling wires against the UN in the Congo. When British Foreign Minister Lord Home was in Washington last Sept. 15, he spent more time talking about the Congo than about Berlin and at one point appeared to have sold part of the State Department that it should withdraw U.S. support for the UN in the Congo. Some British leaders have wanted to keep Katanga a separate country, not subject to central Congolese rule. UN forces have been directed to solidify the country and drive out white mercenaries hired by outsiders to prevent this solidification.

Only one day after Lord Home's visit, President Kennedy, another Irishman, personally intervened, reversed those State Department officials who had been swayed by the Briton's charm, and ordered U.S. Globemasters to carry UN troops to the Congo.

Behind all this complicated backstage jockeying, and behind the two rival factions in the Congo, are two very simple, uncomplicated facts:

1. Katanga is the world's largest producer of uranium; also produces 75 per cent of the world's cobalt, radium, copper, zinc, lead, cadmium, and other minerals; 2. This vast mineral wealth is owned or controlled not entirely by the Belgians, but by the British and the Rockefeller family.

Source of Cobalt Bombs

The uranium in the bombs dropped at Hiroshima and Nagasaki came from Katanga. The cobalt which goes into our deadly cobalt bombs which can wipe out all animal and vegetable life, every living thing in its path, also comes from Katanga.

Here is the economic setup, more important than the diplomatic setup, which lurks behind the scenes in this part of the world:

The company which operates the uranium, cobalt, and copper concessions in Katanga is called Union Miniere Du Haut Katanga, or in English "The Upper Katanga Mining Co." It has concessions covering 13,000 square miles, and, before the fighting started, employed 2,212 white workers, 21,146 Negroes.

Union Miniere, in turn, is controlled by Tanganyika Concessions, Ltd., with head offices in southern Rhodesia. This is a holding company, owned both by the British, the Belgians, and the Rockefeller interests, and also operates the Benguela Railway and various mining properties in Tanganyika. Its dividends are fantastic—31 per cent plus a 100-per-cent stock dividend in 1958, and even higher in other years.

The Rockefellers are reported to own 600,000 shares; and, since Secretary of State Rusk once worked for the Rockefellers, this has been used against the United States in Africa. Actually Rusk has kept strictly aloof from the Rockefellers since he became secretary of state.

But if you look at the imposing line-up of British directors of both Tanganyika concessions and the upper Katanga Mining Co., you can understand why they pack weight with the British Foreign Office and the Tory government.

Here is the line-up:

CAPT. CHARLES WATERHOUSE, chairman of Tanganyika, is a privy councillor, member of Parliament, an ex-minister of labor, ex-assistant postmaster general, ex-treasurer of her majesty's household, and ex-parliamentary secretary to the board of trade.

SIR ULRICK ALEXANDER, director of both Tanganyika and Upper Katanga Mining, is a privy councillor and an extra equerry to the queen, former political secretary to the governor of South Africa, former military secretary to the Egyptian army, and keeper of the privy purse of King Edward VIII. Sir Ulrick helped bring the empire to the peak of its glory, wants to keep a mineral vestige of that empire in Katanga.

THE EARL OF SELBOURNE is a long-time member of Parliament, now of the House of Lords, former director of cement, chairman of the cement-makers federation, president of the Church Army and the House of Laity, and former minister of economic warfare. The Earl is a director of both Tanganyika Concessions and Upper Katanga Mining.

Other directors of Tanganyika Concessions include Sir Ronald Mark Cunliffe, former minister of economic warfare; Sir R. J. Hudson, former attorney general and minister of defense for Southern Rhodesia; and H. F. Oppenheimer, chairman of De Beers Consolidated Mines and the Anglo-American Corporation of South Africa.

British Hand in Katanga

These are the men who have been pulling the wires in the Congo. Against this background you can understand the following:

Why President Tshombe of Katanga hires South African experts to be his advisers. This is comparable to the National Association of Colored People hiring Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi to advise the Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples on race relations.

Why, when the UN persuaded Tshombe on Aug. 28 to bow to the United Nations, the British persuaded him next day to continue fighting. The reversal was arranged by Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of Rhodesia, whose segregationist policies have made him anathema to every Negro leader in Africa, except President Tshombe who is taking orders from London and Brussels.

Why when UN forces were trying to locate Tshombe last summer he was able to obtain refuge in the home of the British consul, Denzil Dunnett, in Elisabethville.

These are some of the reasons why Irish Dr. O'Brien resigned from the UN operations in the Congo and why another Irishman in the White House is opposing the British on the question of the Congo in the UN.

Nothing for Something

There is good reason to be skeptical whether the Communists will ever allow demolition of the East Berlin wall. But Soviet Premier Khrushchev has begun talking about the prospect—and he is saying what we might expect.

He says that if the Reds are to take the wall down they must get something in return.

That's the age-old Communist gambit. Do something illegal or menacing, and then try to win some concession for "generously" agreeing to stop the illegal act.

We'll be on pretty risky ground if we ever let Moscow pull off this one. Who knows? Mr. K might develop some nice, flexible wall materials so he can throw one up in short order whenever he needs a concession. His boys might even have to join the scenery movers' unions.

For destroying the wall we should offer him nothing.

WALL STREET JOURNAL: "Minnie" and Her Money.—Meet "Minnie," a hypothetical working girl conjured up by the California State Division of Labor Statistics and Research to show that a working girl in the Golden West can be self-supporting on less than $2,900 a year.

"Minnie" has no dependents, shares an apartment with another working girl and pays half its costs which, including meals eaten there, come to $1,121.14 a year. For clothes, "Minnie" spends $283.90. The state agency says that "Minnie" can get by on this if she makes her coats do for two years, sweaters and blouses for three, and a bathing suit for four—which may be why this statistical working girl is 35 and still single. For recreation, including provision for a 7-day, $66 vacation—and vacations don't come much cheaper than that—her budget is $166.36.

But the tax bill "Minnie" pays comes to $520.06, of which $480.65 represents federal income tax and Social Security. That $480.65 would buy more than 7 weeks of vacation at a thrifty $66 per week, or better than a 3-week holiday at a more luxurious $132 per week. And that $480.65 is more than twice as much as she manages to put by for insurance and savings. "Minnie," in short, isn't much better off than the rest of us.

Poor "Minnie."

Weird Craft May Become A Workhorse

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A flying machine that looks like a manned kite has been test flown here with the hope it may someday become an aerial workhorse.

"There has never been an aircraft resembling it," said Lou Everett, a project engineer and test pilot, although it is based on principles conceived centuries ago by Leonardo da Vinci.

Everett, in fact, referred to it as "Leonardo da Vinci brought up to date by Francis M. Rogallo."

Rogallo, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientist, developed the concept of a flexible wing aircraft that has been built by Ryan Aeronautical Co. and now is being tested by Everett.

The research vehicle, whose synthetic fabric wing has a span of about 40 feet and was made by a sailmaker, lifts an aluminum slab platform. The pilot seat is in front and a 180-horsepower engine, turning a pusher propeller, is in the rear.

Fitted out this way the "kite" weighs 1,500 pounds. But the wing it is thought, could be used without power to glide a space vehicle to a soft landing or to make possible aerial towing of cargo or troops.

Control is based on a wing pitch pivot point. The platform, swinging from hinges, is moved forward, backward or sideward relative to the wing. This causes the wing to take new angles.

"My sensations," said Everett, "are different from those experienced in any other flying machine. They can best be explained by imagining yourself sitting in a rocking chair controlled by a giant hand which occasionally rocks you sideways as well as back and forth."

What They Say

L. L. STUDER (721 West 3rd St.)—The City Council on December 5th approved the payment of the expenses at the local Airport in the amount of $565.09 for the month of November, 1961 and the revenue from the Airport to Sedalia was only $25.68 during the same month. The present and previous City Councils approved the spending of the funds at the Airport used almost in its entirety by the privately owned planes, including the spending of $1000.00 of the taxpayers funds to conduct an Airport Survey. It does appear that any funds available in the future (after the outcome of the special election on November 21st) could be used more advantageously in an effort to retain the Veterans Administration Office in Sedalia for the benefit of the Veterans, their dependents and widows in Sedalia instead of spending any more of the taxpayers funds to subsidize the local Airport. There is certainly no objection to the use of the local Airport facilities by the privately owned planes. They should be required to assume all of the "on the ground" operating expenses in connection therewith, the same as the railroads do assume, and in addition thereto, they also pay taxes on all of the facilities used in their operations.

Christ in Christmas

Oh, I see Christ in Christmas
Just everywhere I look,
In folks who follow closely
The words of God's own book,
I see him in the baskets
Being filled by clubs and lodges,
I see him in the little girls
Making gay corsages
To take to the sick and old folks
In rest homes in the town,
It isn't hard to see Him
If you only look around
I see Him in the big room
Where clothes are piling high,
Where two organizations
Are asking you and I
To give clothing and blankets
For those who are in need—
Oh, I see Christ in Christmas,
I really do, indeed;
He is in the Welfare Office
Where folks ask for help each year,
And if you stop to listen
I'm sure His voice you'll hear,
For I hear Him in the carols
That every year are sung,
The Salvation Army bell
When at their kettles rung,
I find Him in the programs
At every church and school,
I find Him in the heart of man
Who lives the Golden Rule,
Some say it's too commercial,
But I just don't agree,
I'm happy that the stores have things
To offer you and me,
For I can well remember
World War II when you and I
Could hardly find gifts at all
At any time to buy,
And I remember Christmas trees
With lights, were very few,
I wouldn't want to go back
To those Christmas times, would you?
Christ wasn't in our Christmas then
Because our hearts had hate,
And there were tears and tension,
We were in an awful state,
So God, let us keep our Christmas
As we have it now today,
A tree and happy Christmas,
I'm sure Christ wants this way,
May we always see our children
Filled with the Christmas charm,
May our greeting of the season
Be always bright and warm
May we give our gifts with love
And have parties filled with fun,
May we be filled with desire
For good will toward everyone.
The beautiful nativity
In lovely figurines
That depict the humble story
In the holiest of scenes,
Let America have Christmas
In its own joyful way,
With Santa Claus and Christmas trees
And glittering array
With old traditions mixed with new
And memories and surprises,
The story of the Christ child
As each Christmas carol rises,
Oh, I see Christ in Christmas
In just everything we do
And if Christ was here among us
I think He'd like it, too.

OLEANDER'S CHRISTMAS EVE

Reach the Lonely Ones

By Ralph W. Loew, D.D.
Written for Newspaper
Enterprise Assn.

Milling about in a crowd of tourists viewing the crater of a volcano in Japan, I suddenly heard a man call me by name. There in that foreign country, surrounded by hundreds of students, I became a recognized person. I wasn't just a foreigner.

All about us there are persons who yearn for just that sense of being known and understood.

The crowds on the commuter train, the family next door, the people staring at the model fallout shelter, the party at the next table laughing just a bit too loudly, the lonesome person over there who looks defeated by an inner shyness — all these represent the yearning for understanding.

They would light up, as did I, if someone looked across the crater and shouted their name.

Dietrich Bonhoeffer, the martyr who was hanged by Hitler, wrote of this loneliness:

"Yearning for colors, for flowers, for the voices of birds, thirsting for words of kindness, for neighborliness, tossing in expectation of great events, powerlessly trembling for friends at an infinite distance, weary and empty at praying, at thinking, at making, faint, and ready to say farewell to it all.

Reading these words written in prison, it occurs that there are many people who are not imprisoned by tyrants but who are held by their own tyrannies in a similar kind of loneliness.

These pre-Christmas days ought to be the time when we consider all of this anew. Wrote Dostoevski, "To love a person is to see him as God intended him to be." This is basic to education, to social work, to the healing arts, and to any who believe in the worth of a human being.

It's as basic to each of us who are purchasing gifts, securing greeting cards, and going about the business of thinking of our friends and families.

These acts of courtesy ought to be the meaningful reachings through the crowd to surprise some persons by calling them by name.

Amid the crowds we need to think of persons as they are intended to be.

'Lefts' and 'Rights' Serve As Guides to Middle-rovers

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — The vast majority of American voters are now caught between two minority forces on the extreme left and right. On the right, a myriad of ultraconservative groups like the John Birch Society. On the left, organizations like Americans for Democratic Action. These are the whipping boys.

If the great uprising of conservative political thought and action now manifest in many parts of the country follows the historic pattern of the last 50 years, it may not have much influence in the 1964 presidential elections.

For the 1962 congressional elections, the right-wing movements, stronger in some localities than others, could swing more marginal districts into the Republican column. The minority party usually makes gains in midterm elections, anyway.

In presidential election years, however, the right wing movements never unite.

They never agree to back one candidate or one platform. Each splinter group that pursues its own pet goals instead of throwing its full weight behind the Republican party takes away from it that much strength.

President Kennedy showed his instinctive political smartness as well as his idealism at a press conference. He defended the right of anyone to give money to an extremist group so long as this is not an attempt to evade taxation.

Only a few days before, in his Seattle and Los Angeles speeches the President had denounced extremist movements that shut their eyes to the dangers of international communism and try to deal with it blindly as a domestic evil.

Turn then and defend the right of anyone to give money to such causes may seem inconsistent. But why not?

Any contributions to splinter groups take that much money away from the GOP, which is already in bad enough straits.

Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona has given the most frequently heard rationalization of the right-wing movements. He says that the danger to the United States comes not from the John Birch Society or the Minutemen, but from the 30-odd members of American for Democratic Action who now hold office in the Kennedy Administration.

This list was compiled by Robert Hartman of the Los Angeles Times. ADA headquarters admits all names on it are members.

It is now given wider circulation through Frank Kluckhohn's new pocket book, "Listen America," which builds up the theory that all U. S. troubles come from left-wing influences here at home in the Kennedy administration. Included on the list of ADA-ers now in government are cabinet members Orville L. Freeman, Arthur Goldberg and Abraham Ribicoff, "Little cabinet" members G. Mennen Williams, Charles Murphy, Henry C. Fowler; Ambassadors Chester Bowles, Adlai Stevenson, J. Kenneth Galbraith and Thomas K. Fineletter, White House aides Theodore C. Sorensen and Arthur S. Schlesinger, J. Others are less well known.

But to maintain that this group runs the Kennedy administration in some kind of a supersecret conspiracy may be an over simplification.

Joseph L. Rauh, one of ADA's founders, maintains that the Kennedy administration is not doing even 25 per cent of the things ADA wants, not moving 25 per cent fast enough. One word from ADA and the President does as he pleases. He was never a member. They think him too conservative.

Since the United States has never been a country of splinter parties, ADA, the John Birchers and the like seem to have only one function in the American political picture. They present the views of the extreme left and the extreme right.

That should make it easier for the great majority of the people in between to identify middle-of-the-road policies they can adopt and support.

Driver Education Program Paying Off

BETWEEN THE STAKES—Parallel parking practice takes place on the drivers training obstacle course on Ninth street. Always a tricky maneuver, this practice gives the student an opportunity to perfect a point which gives many beginning drivers a black mark when they take their road test for an operators license. Practice is done between two wooden stakes, eliminating the risk of dented fenders. (Democrat-Capitol photos)

Class Limited In Enrollment

By Larry Embry

AT THE END of this year statistics will show more young people in the age group 15 to 24 died in motor vehicle accidents than by any other cause. Similar figures will indicate approximately one of every 17 in this group suffered an injury in an auto accident.

Annually the auto accident rate for young persons—and all age groups for that matter—mounts while the general public plods a path of apathy. Some groups, however, view the situation with alarm and are taking action. Their efforts are producing some valid results. Particularly heartening is a decrease of 100 in Missouri road deaths as the year nears its end.

An apparent step in the right direction is the drivers education programs in the public schools. While not the final solution to the mass highway slaughter, drivers education classes seem to be paying off and are gaining added support.

Insurance firms endorse the courses by financially supporting the program in some states and by practically every company offering 10 to 15 per cent discounts on property damage and personal liability premiums to graduates of such courses. The Highway Patrol lends its support by assisting in every possible way. Leading car manufacturers provide the schools with an auto through a local agency so that the school needs only pay for operating expenses and insurance.

But the disappointing factor is that the drivers education course is crowded into a corner of the high school curriculum and many of the students take the course or pass it by because it is regarded as an easy credit. Only a small percentage of schools offer the course and in smaller school systems the course is unheard of. Larger schools can usually handle only a small amount of the student body because of the limitations placed when each student is offered equal time behind the wheel of the training car.

Here in Sedalia the drivers education program is administered by Foster McGuire, who daily conducts five classes at Smith-Cotton high school and one class at Hubbard high. Classes are limited to 12 students per class and the course covers one semester or one-half the year. Consequently only 120 students can take the course at Smith-Cotton each year and 24 at Hubbard.

"We always have more students wanting to take the course than we can handle," McGuire said.

The course is open to students 15 years or over, McGuire explained, and the majority of students are sophomores and juniors as their age group spans the years from 15 to 16.

Enrolling in the course necessitates a student driving permit which allows the youth to operate a motor vehicle only when accompanied by an instructor in a drivers training program approved by the State Department of Education. The fee for the permit is 25 cents, it is issued by the instructor and remains in his possession except when he is giving driving instructions to the student.

The course operates on a five-day-per-week schedule, McGuire pointed out. One day is utilized in classroom instruction and the other four days are spent in driving practice.

"To receive a certificate indicating completion of the course each student must have had a minimum of 30 hours classroom work and six hours of actual driving," McGuire said.

"We try to cover every situation that the student might come in contact with and realism in driving situations is always strived for," he said.

"Some students may regard the course as simple, but their opinions soon change," McGuire pointed out.

Covered in the classroom are the history of the automobile, a study of the driver's physical fitness, braking and stopping distances, how the auto functions and a detailed study of Missouri traffic laws.

Each student is required to keep a notebook and is assigned various projects which stress specific driving points. For example, McGuire recently asked each student to select an intersection in STEADY THERE—Carla Cole demonstrates a mechanism which gives an indication of a driving student's steadiness of hand. The object of this device is to lower a metal rod between two graduated metal strips. As the scale moves toward the bottom the strips become closer together and when the rod touches an edge a light flashes indicating the student's score.

Sedalia, study the accident rates at the intersection, the probable causes of these mishaps, and then suggest a solution.

"Some of the results were outstanding," McGuire said.

Various visual aids such as movies, statistical charts and pictures are thoroughly studied in the classroom. Certain devices supplement the driving program, by starting the motor, testing the brakes and manipulating all interior controls.

The first step in learning to drive is steering a straight line

Then the student drives an obstacle course consisting of wooden stakes set up in the street which he must weave in and out of gaining the feel of controlling the vehicle.

McGuire has established an obstacle course on Ninth street between Lamine and Massachusetts where initial driving practice begins. Parallel parking practice, always a tough maneuver, is practiced here also. From the obstacle course the student graduates to driving throughout the city and then to the highway for short road trips.

The instructor is always in the seat beside the student during driving practice and the car is equipped with dual controlled brakes which enable the instructor to stop the car should the student fail to do so in an emergency. The car has an automatic transmission and the brake is the only control the instructor has over the car. This adds to the student's sense of responsibility when he is at the wheel.

McGuire is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan and did additional graduate work at the University of Nebraska. Besides the drivers education courses he is an assistant athletic instructor.

Pointing to the serious aspects of the course, McGuire emphasized that the class deals with a field that virtually every student will be connected with. An important goal of the course is to instill a greater sense of driving responsibility in the young motorist's mind; if this point gets across most of the others will be realized too.

The public takes the auto for granted, the instructor explained, and the drivers education programs are given only 36 hours of time to teach a student driving precautions that could save his life.

Joey Layton Moving Fast On Broadway

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Young man on a Broadway rocket, Joey Layton makes it all seem easy.

"People, says the lanky dancer-turned-showboss, just keep thrusting jobs his way. Out of the blue. 'And I'm awfully glad—that's all,' he says.

Take his recent workout as stager of dance and music numbers for "Sail Away."

"Noel Coward just called up, and asked me, and I said 'Yes,'" reports Joe. "I'd never even met him."

Before that there was Richard Rodgers.

"I didn't know him, but he saw the first thing I did off-Broadway and it led to 'The Sound of Music.'"

In the past three seasons Layton has been involved in six musicals, and the biggest challenge of all is his seventh assignment, as over-all director of "No Strings," the Rodgers-Samuel Taylor opus scheduled to premiere March 1.

The record rates Layton, who is now 29, as one of the most sought after operatives around and is quite in keeping with the steady pace of his previous theatrical activity.

Luck began beaming when the local lad arrived on Broadway at age 16. He promptly won a dancing spot in "Oklahoma!" and four more musicals followed in swift succession.

"I don't know how I did it," he says about that run of steady employment in "High Button Shoes," "Miss Liberty," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "Wonderful Town." (He's been getting opening night wires ever since from Rosalind Russell, the star of that last show).

In 1952, military service summoned and for two years Joe was stationed at Ft. Carson, Colo.

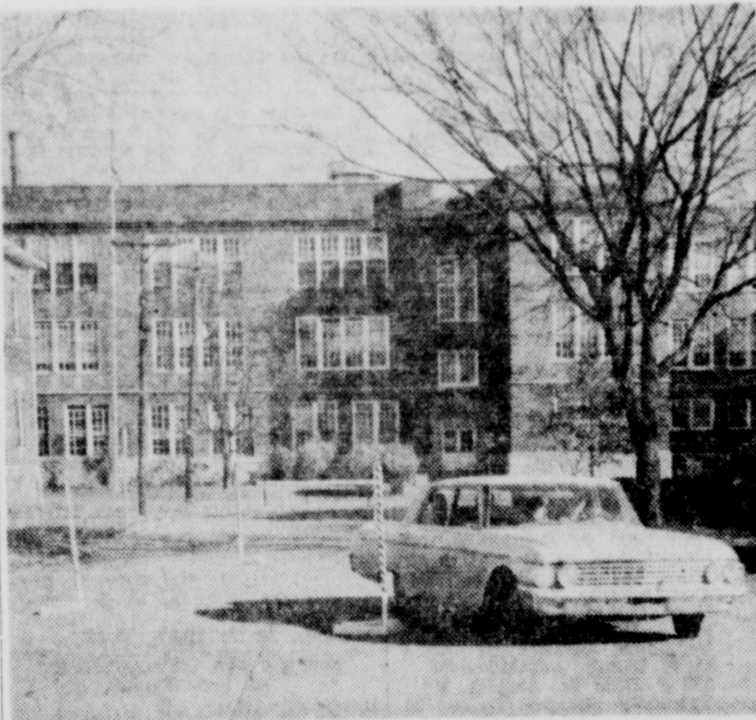

"I finagled my way into Special Services," he recalls cheerfully. Soon he was in charge of staging dramas and other entertainment at the base, and before long decided he was through with dancing.

"I was as happy directing things there as here," Joe says. "The only difference is there are a few more dollars on Broadway."

His service stint completed, Layton deliberately avoided a return to New York so he wouldn't be tempted to resume a hoofing career. In Paris he worked for a year with a small group as choreographer, then got a job directing entertainment at Camp Tamiment, Pa., a summer resort.

NO SCREECHING TIRES—Drivers training students can be given a test of their braking reaction time before initial driving lessons begin. This device demonstrated by two Smith-Cotton students measures the braking time without any screeching of tires or wasted rubber. Demonstrating the mechanism are Carla Cole, standing, and Marita Rye. When Miss Cole pushes a buzzer in her hand a timing device begins operation. At the buzzing signal Miss Rye removes her foot from the accelerator and sets the brakes. This device measures only the braking reaction time and other means compute stopping distances.

OBSTACLE COURSE—This portion of Ninth street, between Lamine and Massachusetts, is kept busy throughout the school week as student drivers weave the training car in and out of an array of black-and-white striped wooden stakes. Parallel parking is also practiced here. From the obstacle course students graduate to city driving and then to short road trips.

VISION TEST—Marita Rye concentrates on a vision testing device while Foster McGuire, drivers training instructor, adjusts the instrument. This piece of equipment, one of several used to test the eyesight of student drivers, measures the field of sight or the extent of the peripheral vision.

Gifts Youngsters Really Want

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Research, Inc.

Can't decide what to give your best girl for Christmas, boys? Give her jewelry. Girls do love jewelry—next to clothes, a private telephone and a typewriter, that is.

If you're undecided about the type of jewelry, a bracelet is almost sure to please. Most teenage girls—65 per cent, to be exact—would prefer a bracelet to a necklace or ring or pins or earrings or even a watch.

This advice, of course, is for teen-age boys whose circumstances (budget included) would seem to rule out a young lady's first three Christmas gift preferences.

But we also have some tips for you parents, if you're interested: tips resulting from a nationwide cross-section survey of more than a thousand teen-age boys and girls on their likes and dislikes in the matter of gifts, plus some revealing comment on teen-age attitudes toward Christmas in general.

All types of gifts considered, most teen-age boys (22 per cent) are hoping to receive sports equipment and most girls (24 per cent) clothes.

Next on the boys' list of anticipated gifts comes a typewriter (preferred by 18 per cent), then clothes (12 per cent), then a tape recorder (8 per cent), then a car, bike and money.

Skirts Are Favorites

Nineteen per cent of the girls we talked to want to own their own telephone, 11 per cent want a typewriter and 10 per cent want jewelry.

But when we asked the girls their preference of five popular gifts—jewelry, clothes, accessories, lingerie and handbags—an overwhelming 83 per cent picked clothes. Next in order are jewelry (33 per cent), lingerie and handbags (11 per cent each) and accessories (9 per cent). Some of the girls just can't make up their minds, making more than one choice.

The favorite clothing gift (choice of 71 per cent) was skirts; followed by sweaters (65 per cent); blouses (41 per cent); and dresses (28 per cent)—choices influenced, perhaps, by current needs.

As noted, a bracelet was the favored choice in jewelry. The favorite accessory was footwear (39 per cent); the favorite lingerie, slips (65 per cent); and the favorite handbag, the large leather variety (80 per cent).

If all this makes you wary of the teen-age spirit of giving, rather than receiving, this finding should dispel your concern:

Nearly all the nation's teen-agers, 90 per cent, give presents to their parents; 61 per cent also include their friends; and 41 per cent include other than family and friends—the less fortunate, for example.

By and large, teen-agers are happy with the Christmas season, for a variety of reasons.

Nothing Like Christmas

Mike Dominic, 13, of Brooklyn, N.Y., didn't get his pool table, and Gale Frederick, 15 of Hyattsville Md., didn't get a stuffed animal from her boyfriend. But aside from these disappointments 80 per cent of the girls and 65 per cent of the boys said last Christmas was all they had expected it to be and 69 per cent of the girls and 78 per cent of the boys said they expect this Christmas to be even more satisfying.

Mary Jane Holtzman, 15, of Fullerton, Pa., said "it's fun to go shopping and wrap the gifts." Carol Pruzinsky, 15, of Clementon, Pa., enjoyed decorating the tree; Lolly Lizotti 15, of San Lorenzo, Calif. was inspired by the Christmas mass at church; 13-year-old Patricia Owens of Allentown, Pa., liked Christmas dinner; and others, like 16-year-old Sandy McDonald of Wilmington, Del., liked "the sleigh rides, the snowball fights and sleeping late."

In fact, the only really disappointing thing about Christmas—and this to only 24 per cent of the teen-agers—was that the school vacation was too brief.

As 18-year-old James Saithby of Larchmont, N.Y., summed it up, "Christmas is Christmas. You don't necessarily expect presents."

The figures on the ability of the Enterprise to cruise for long distances are theoretical. Nuclear power replaces only oil. Food for the crew and bombs, missiles, ammunition and aviation gasoline for the planes must be supplied at regular intervals in war. To be protected, the Enterprise normally will have to travel with a screening force of destroyers and other ships. Their range depends on oil refueling.

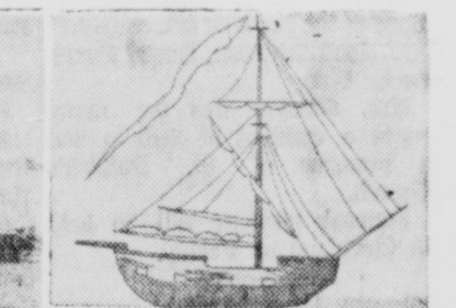

The Enterprise has fantastic electronic computer systems on board which show on scopes the position and identity, where it is known, of all friendly and enemy planes, ships and submarines in a battle action. The computers also evaluate and recommend counter moves to meet the battle situation as it develops. The first action flashed is the one the computer recommends most highly. Other solutions follow.

The hope is to have this tactical data system on all ships in any Enterprise task force to make possible the operation of all of the ships in the group "almost as one ship."

Since this computer system will be able to incorporate information and commands from most parts of the globe, it will be able to coordinate commands for, say, all of the task forces operating in the Atlantic within seconds.

Nuclear information coming in from any source goes into the system. The computers, as far as they can, work out from these fragmentary bits and pieces the identity, size, location and speed of friendly and enemy ships, subs and planes. The results and the suggestions on what to do about the situation are displayed automatically on scopes installed in the Combat Information Center on the Enterprise.

The big carrier is specially braced and designed for atomic attack. The configuration of the decks, and their thickness are intended to minimize missile and nuclear attacks. There is an all-ship wash-spray system to quickly wash off radioactive particles and chemical and biological substances in an attack.

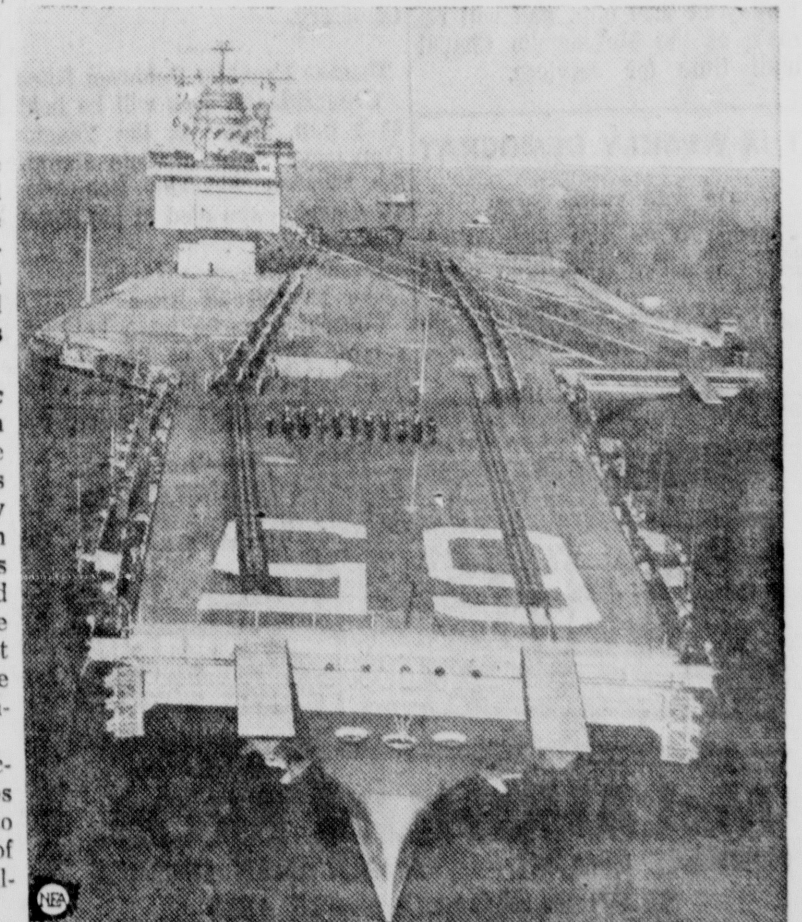

The Enterprise, with all its size and modern equipment, is a ship of surprises and incongruities.

There are 750 telephones on the giant ship. Signs posted in the passageways read "In case of fire or general emergency, dial extension 211."

Despite the latest in radar, six crewmen will sit continually on high stools looking out to sea through slits, watching for planes, ships and submarines.

The Enterprise, with its 90 warplanes, is probably capable of delivering a heavier atomic blow than any ship in the Navy. But without its planes and escorting destroyers and other ships, the Enterprise is almost completely naked. It has no big guns, no anti-aircraft, no major defense weapons of any kind. It has a small group of Marines, some small arms, hand grenades, demolition blasting caps and mine detonators—and that's about it.

There are elaborate quarters, including a double bed, for any admiral assigned aboard. A visit to the quarters of two junior officers discloses an umbrella hanging by the door. Why? "In case it rains."

Says Court Has No Jurisdiction In Tax Lawsuits

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—U. S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt has ruled his court lacks jurisdiction to consider lawsuits stemming from a dispute over taxes on Nebraska-Missouri border lands.

In an order filed with the clerk of the U.S. District Court Judge Van Pelt remanded the cases to the Otoe County, Neb., District Court.

The suits grow out of the meanderings of the Missouri river, which separates the states.

Otoe County sought to foreclose on tax claims against land now located on the east, or Missouri side of the river, on grounds the land still is part of Nebraska.

Defendant landowners contend the land is part of Missouri and they have been paying Missouri real estate taxes on the property. They attempted to shift the cases to Federal Court and Otoe County challenged the Federal Court's jurisdiction.

Otoe County contended the money involved is less than the $10,000 minimum required to put the case in Federal Court jurisdiction. The landowners contended the value of the land rather than the amount of taxes—should control, but Judge Van Pelt supported the Otoe County view.

Originally 24 suits were brought by the county, but only five were carried to the Federal Court. Total taxes involved were $660.12.

Safe Journeys

Home Is Plan Of Policemen

The Sedalia Police Department is making special efforts to see that Christmas Eve and New Years Eve party-goers get home safely.

Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin said Thursday that police officers will be on duty throughout the night Sunday and the following Sunday, to drive anyone in Sedalia home if driver of the car feels he or she has had a little too much to drink.

Any driver who has imbibed a little too freely may call the police station, Christmas or New Year's Eve, and one of the police officers will drive the car home. Hamlin said that the department will make no special provisions for patrols or other police activity during the holiday period.

In the past two years there have been from six to 12 calls for police drivers. Hamlin said he feels the program is well worth while, in helping keep the holiday accident record at a safe level.

No tickets will be issued by the driver-officers, Hamlin said.

McNamara Refuses Bureau's Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has turned down a Budget Bureau proposal that dependents of service men be charged $1 for each outpatient visit to military hospitals and dispensaries.

A Defense Department spokesman said Thursday McNamara rejected the proposal earlier this week while taking still another look at the planned military budget requests for the bookkeeping year starting next July 1.

The spokesman said the proposed $1 charge was intended to curb excessive use of the hospital privilege by dependents of military personnel. It was calculated to save about $17 million a year.
